PRICE OF UNITY Will Make It Condition Precedent to Recognition of Dawes Plan.

London.—French members of the committee of the inter-allied conference dealing with authority of the reparations commission announced this afternoon their determination to insist upon the taking up by bankers of the proposed loan to Germany as a condition precedent to the recognition of the Dawes plan in effect.

The French members also expressed their joint conviction that the economic unity of Germany could not be restored until the proposed loan was underwritten.

The statement was made before the French officials entered a meeting of their committee, formed by the conference to deal with the authority of the reparations commission in respect to the action to be taken in the event of possible default of Germany in the execution of the Dawes scheme.

LA FOLLETTE WILL DELAY STUMPING TILL SEPTEMBER

Washington.—Dividers of Senator La Follette of Wisconsin are urging him not to be in a hurry to launch his active campaign for the presidency. Speech making during the next few weeks would be wasted effort, they argue, urging that the senator do little campaigning until September and then begin an intensive flight for votes, carrying it through to a whirlwind finish just before election day.

While no definite decision has been made, Senator La Follette apparently is of the same mind as his constituents. The next three or four weeks, he believes, should be devoted to the non-spectacular task of building up a nation-wide organization and getting the La Follette ticket on the ballot in every state.

Stumping Is Postponed.

The senator has declined an invitation to address his followers before the end of the month and those helping on campaign arrangements say there probably will be no stumping before September.

Meanwhile, however, he may do some broadcasting by radio, which will be used extensively in the interests of his campaign after he goes to his home in Madison.

FIRST REAL ORGANIZATION SINCE 1912 TO BE UNDERTAKEN.

HUGE TASK SEEN National and Regional Directors to Shoulder Burden; Plan of Nominee.

New York.—The democrats have undertaken the building of a national political machine for the first time since 1912. With the exception of the control exercised over it by Woodrow Wilson, the party has had no organization for the past 12 years. Nominally there has been a national committee, but it has seldom functioned. In the campaign of four years ago it was virtually of no avail whatever to the presidential candidate, James M. Cox. It seemed lacking in financial and all other resources. Governor Cox fought the battle of 1920—practically alone. Wherever he went—and he traveled. (Continued on Page 2)

Freed His Wife, So She Could Marry Another Man

John K. Kowalski, 42, was found hanging in the house of the Duncan MacFarlane farm, one half mile north of Darien, at 3:30 p. m. Wednesday by his wife, who went in search of him after he had not been seen for five hours.

His death was pronounced suicide by a coroner's jury of Darien men, after an inquest conducted at the home by Justice Fuller of Elkhorn. The cause apparently was financial difficulty, as the man had been in good health and apparently in the best of spirits. The jury was composed of John Woodford, George Reed, Peter Zimbach, Otto Newman, Guy Brigham, and Herman Finster. Kowalski has been on the farm since last March, having moved here from Watworth. He was seen Wednesday morning at the house and then went into the fields. When he could not be found there in the afternoon, his wife went through the buildings in search of him and was overcome when she found him hanging by a rope from a rafter in the hog house.

District Attorney Alfred Godfrey was notified and he sent Deputy Sheriff Will Cusack and Justice Fuller to the scene.

The farmer is survived by his wife and three children, Hazel, employed in the Bradley Mill at Delavan, and Harry and Lyle at home.

Arrangements for the funeral have not been made.

POLICE SEEKING ASSAILANTS OF MILWAUKEE GIRLS

Milwaukee.—Police are searching for three men who kidnaped two girls on a lonely road near Racine last night. One of the girls was in a serious condition today as the result of her experiences while her twin sister, who was not attacked, is suffering from shock.

The girls were riding with Edwin Nichols, 24 years old and Herbert Brandt, 23 years old when a machine containing three men pulled up along side and a pistol was pushed into Brandt's ribs. The robbers went through the men's clothes and obtained a small amount of money.

"You haven't much money, so we'll take the girls," the bandits said and forced Brandt to turn his machine about and drive away, under threat of shooting him.

According to the story told to the authorities by the girls, the bandits kept their machine in the city and then returned them to the city and left them in the vicinity of their home.

TRACTION COMPANY TO MEET EXPENSE OF TRACK PAVING

SPARKS AGREES TO PAY FOR TWO BLOCK STRETCH.

AMOUNTS TO $1,400

Trolley Line to Be Relieved of Cost of Other Paving in Future.

An agreement whereby the Janesville Traction company will pay for the cost of present paving upon North Washington street, as provided by the city ordinance, was reached by City Manager Tucker and W. C. Sparks, vice president and general manager of the company, Wednesday.

The street car company agreed to pay for the cost of paving upon the stretch from Mineral Point avenue to Highland avenue, as desired by the city administration. The cost for work between the tracks, will exceed $1,400 it is reported.

The company was assured it would be relieved of future paving costs upon the street from Highland avenue to the end of the tracks, in accordance with the plan suggested by Lewis E. Gottlieb, chairman of the railroad committee.

The stretch from Highland avenue to the end of the line will probably be included in the 1925 paving program, but it is expected that a portion of the expense will be borne by the city, so that the total cost to the city will be comparatively small.

The stretch from Mineral Point avenue to the railroad tracks will probably not be included in the paving program for some time, it was stated. The street car company took the position that the cost of work upon the two stretches not in this program would be impossible for them to pay.

SALESMAN HELD IN JEFFERSON JAIL

Passed Two Bad Checks in Watertown—"Drunk" Is His Defense.

Jefferson.—A man about 30 years old is being held in jail here following an arraignment before Justice Ferdinand Schmutzler, Watertown, late Tuesday evening charged with obtaining money on false pretenses. He was accompanied by E. A. Ketter, of Dayfield, Wis., a young man of about 25. Ketter is said to be of Chicago. Both of the men are understood to be interested in the case.

Ketter is charged with passing worthless checks, two of which were drawn on the Farmers State bank of Beaver Dam, and in the sum of $2,000 each. He was cashed in the bank prior to Arthur Gerke and the other at Otto Christensen's place in Watertown. The young men were arrested late Monday night by Watertown officials and held in the city jail until the hearing Tuesday night.

Ketter was released but the older man was bound over to circuit court. He was understood to be intoxicated and did not know where he obtained the checks. Ketter was used in writing the checks. He waived preliminary examination and will plead guilty.

"I have decided not to press my candidacy for congress at this time, but to permit a clear-cut decision between the two factions of the party in the county. At a meeting of Waukesha county republicans, the situation as it had developed the past few weeks was thoroughly discussed, and it was felt by all of us that the best interests of the party in the county and the district would be conserved by my own retirement from the contest."

MOTOR TRAFFIC ON CONCRETE DOUBLED

Season's Figures Jump Over Those of 1923, Check Indicates.

Motor traffic has practically doubled in Rock county on the concrete lines.

This fact is brought out on the traffic census made in Rock county under the direction of Charles O'Gard, superintendent of patrol work, and furnished to the state for traffic computations. Much of the traffic checked was tourist coming into Wisconsin over highway 10 and coming north on the Evansville road to the lake district.

The census indicated was made in 1923 on the Evansville-Evanston road, number 10, numbered 15 this year. That the count was checked in the same place, the census shows it would be even larger, for a part of the traffic is divided at Janesville, many going the Edgerton route.

However, the census shows the marked increase of motor traffic and in turn the necessity of having permanent roads, well patrolled.

Check on July 17 were 1,265 cars checked on the road, 1,002 having the Wisconsin motor license and 222 cars from other states, 20 trucks, 16 horse-drawn vehicles and 40 horse-drawn vehicles.

As compared to this on July 4, 1923, there were checked 3,228 motor vehicles, 1,647 Wisconsin cars, 1,492 from other states, 23 trucks, 24 motorcycles and not a single horse-drawn vehicle.

A comparison is made between June 18, 1924, when 1,414 cars were checked, 1,002 Wisconsin cars and 220 foreign, as compared to June 22, 1923, when 601 cars, 421 from Wisconsin were noted. The three checks from other states, a large percentage of which were going some distance in Wisconsin.

Favorite fine roads and fine system of marking the roads, along with the scenic attraction of the state, has brought a heavy flow of motor vehicles from other states.

The census brings out the fairness of the gasoline tax in order to distribute the burden of the highway tax, the most. As it is now, the tourist motorist, paying no direct expense for the road, travels over, and Wisconsin bears the burden.

In times of heavy tourist travel about one-half of the cars using the concrete roads are from other states.

NEWS OF TANKS

Camp Douglas.—We arrived at camp at 5 p. m. Saturday and we had mess at 7:45 p. m. The boys being very tired the most of them turned in early, and also got up early, (at 3 a. m.) it being the first time they had run up and down the company streets to keep warm.

Sunday being the second day in camp we did not have to go out on the drill field so the morning was passed by cleaning up the camp, getting in camp, and enjoying a very good dinner, ice cream topped the meal. After dinner there were two ball games, one between the officers and non-commissioned officers, and one between the officers and the enlisted men. The first game was won by the enlisted men, 12 to 11. The second was won by the officers, 14 to 12. The rubber will be played Sunday afternoon. Mess Sergeant Simpson umpired the first game and Corp. Jaeger, the second. In the evening the boys enjoyed a moving picture at the camp. Y. M. C. A. "General" John Custer leading the parade to the Y.

Tuesday the men had close order work and the men are improving very rapidly. The officers and non-commissioned officers held their work days. The enlisted men are taking an interest, and everything is going smoothly. Tuesday night, Franklin Palat, one of the Tanks, took on a professional wrestling match with a man named and held him to a draw. He will wrestle again Friday night to a finish.

The company is doing quite a little athletic work every evening. There was a game of kitchen ball between the Tank company and Co. "D", 125th, of Rice Lake. The game was close until the last two innings, ending in a 1-0 victory for the Tanks. Simonson made a home run in the first inning for the Tanks and started the boys off. The first double play was made by Sgt. Schuler at third on a one-bagger, catch and throw, the ball to first to Sgt. Newbauer. The first error was made by Lt. Marker. Capt. Grimschaw knocked a home run, bringing Sgt. Newbauer home from first. The men kicked very hard, but the Tanks did not step on his heels. Lt. Jackson followed with another home run, Lt. Arndt almost got second on a foul ball but Raydon pitched a three strike out in the sixth inning.

In the seventh inning Grimschaw almost hit the cover off the ball making another home run. Ray of Rice Lake made a home run, bringing in three of their men. Schuler took the ball out of the air, one-handed, after a 20 yard run. Corp. Shurtliff, who was playing short, is going to apply to Bob Linder for a position in front of his cigar store in a wooden Indian. Corp. Jaeger had a batting average of 3,000 percent, getting a hit each time he was up. The mess sergeant is a child of nature. The Tank company and also of the boys' stumblers. Lt. Marker is almost heart-broken because he does not get mail enough from someone, but we do not know who.

The Webster playground will have an exhibit of children's sports next Wednesday afternoon, and it is expected that women's volleyball and croquet will afford diversions at some of the playgrounds that afternoon.

The girls' embroidery club, conducted by Miss Helen Fellows, at the Webster playground, exhibited articles made by members. Prizes were awarded as follows: 1st, Margaret Wilson; 2nd, Catherine Howard; 3rd, Emogene Madden.

The winner of third place is only five years old but had done a simple design on a towel very neatly. Prizes were presented by Mary Tullie, president of the club. Helen Luby is vice-president. Honorable mention was given to the work of Helen Dreher, Alberta Jones, Ellen Luby, Margaret Delaney, Catherine Delaney and Elizabeth Mulligan.

Adams playground had the largest attendance of children with 125 present when the concert was made. Transportation for the band was provided in two buses loaned by Ed Kellogg, Sunson company, and L. J. Stewart, Chevrolet.

Fire Near Warehouse.—Sparks from a locomotive got fire to grass and weeds in the rear of Hayes brothers warehouse on Galena street near the North street viaduct at 12:30 p. m. Thursday. It was extinguished by the fire department.

WOMEN TO FORM VOLLEY LEAGUE

Each Playground to Have One Team—Tournament Is Planned.

By EUGENE S. LOWE.
First steps toward the formation of a women's volleyball league were taken at the mothers' day gatherings held at the five school playgrounds Wednesday. The suggestion that mothers and other matrons would find volleyball an interesting and not too strenuous diversion was received with enthusiasm. Indications are that each playground will have at least one team, while some may have two. The plan is to play off a tournament in the playgrounds, with prizes going toward the playground fund. It is expected that Jefferson and Adams will be ready to play the first game at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday, but details have not been fully arranged.

"THE WHITE SISTER" IS HERE NEXT WEEK
A gorgeous spectacle in moving pictures is assured in "The White Sister," which will be presented at the Apollo theatre, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week. The screen version of the famous novel by P. Marion Crawford has the beautiful star Lillian Gish in the role of the Italian princess and later the nun, Sister Angela. Lillian Gish has delighted fans in such triumphs as "The Birth of a Nation," "Way Down East," "The Sign of the Cross" and "Broken Blossoms." Italy, with the volcano of Vesuvius as the center, is the locale for the picture, seven months having been spent in that country in producing it.

Both Missing.
The Rev. Guy E. Shipley, editor of "The Churchman," told a dinner in New York a number of church anecdotes.

"Late one Saturday night," Dr. Shipley said, "a young divine announced to me that he was going to preach at a certain church. This church was unknown to the young man. Nevertheless, he prepared his sermon, took his train, arrived there and preached duly."

"He preached from the text, 'Without money and without price,' and, every time he quoted his text—and of course he had to quote it pretty frequently in the sermon's course—the entire congregation shook with suppressed laughter."

"Well, after the exercises were over the young divine asked one of the vestrymen the meaning of all that suppressed mirth."

"The vestryman gave a loud guffaw and said: 'Our own minister—the one whose pulpit you are occupying—is named Price and he absconded yesterday with a large sum of money.'"

CARRIED DISPATCH ARRANGING FINAL SURRENDER IN '65

John A. Moore, Ill. — A picturesque figure at the national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic in Boston, in August, will be John A. Moore of Bloomington, the last survivor of the group present when General Joe B. Johnston, surrendered to General W. T. Sherman at Durham, N. C., April 26, 1865.

This surrender, coming ten days after the surrender at Appomattox, ended the Civil War.

Moore was an orderly and carried the dispatches back and forth, which finally led to the meeting of the two generals.

Moore was a trooper of Kilpatrick's famous regiment of Indian cavalrymen, and was one of the thousand volunteers who twice followed General John H. Morgan, the Confederate raider, to his capture. Morgan was first caught after a long chase through Ohio, and was imprisoned in the penitentiary at Columbus. Escaping six months later, he reorganized his band and again followed Kilpatrick, succeeding at Greenville, Tenn. Moore participated in both of these pursuits and is believed to be the last survivor of the troops who twice captured the notorious Confederate leader.

JANESVILLE FISH SALES ARE HEAVY
Much fish is being consumed by the people of Janesville. The local markets report the greatest number of fish sales made on Friday. Of the many different kinds of fresh and salt water fish now on the market, it is believed that the halibut appears most appetizing and that it is much easier to prepare than trout or bullheads.

ANOTHER FIERY
CROSS IS BURNED
Many persons who Tuesday night saw the large cross burning opposite the dance pavilion of Riverside park, were attracted again to the spot Wednesday night when another cross, equal in height to that of the night before, flared for a considerable length of time in the presence of about 30 hooded and masked men, apparently members of the Ku Klux Klan. Janesville and Edgerton cars were parked in a yard near the bend in the Edgerton road near the stone quarry. The gate was guarded by men hooded in blackness while the curious watched from outside. No ritualistic work was carried out.

CHARLEY AND DICK NOW DIRT FARMERS

Charley and Dick, the 16-year old horses that made their last run last Saturday, are now pulling a plow. T. Fish, who bought them for $35, has started them as "dirt farmers."

"You'd think they have been at the work all their lives," said Mr. Fish. "They are a little soft and fat, so I have worked them gently two hours a day. Before another year, they will be good and hard. They are pets, you know, and I am going to take good care of them. They run, around the yard and come over to have you stroke them."

Firemen of Janesville miss the "old boys," they fondle the ropes that each of them took as a keepsake from the final blanket that covered the team on its last public duty.

Evansville, Its Fair and Its President
 The first of 'em is at Evansville. The last week in July will see the opening of the fair season in Southern Wisconsin. Named in division once, the Evansville promoters of their fair have long since capitalized the "Pumpkin Show" as their very own and when it comes to fairs it is a mighty good one. While we may submit that it is a little too early for the golden pumpkins—it takes frost to put that color on the big fellows among the corn rows—it is not too early to have a most excellent exhibition of every kind of a Rock county product.

In this connection it is with regret that Evansville and the rest of Rock county come to parting with the Rev. W. P. McDermott, who is the president of the fair association and who is announced to leave for other duties and obligations in connection with his church work. There is no reason why a preacher or priest may not be an active member of a community and its life. In fact he ought to be. Therefore the work the Rev. W. P. McDermott has done is, from another viewpoint, just what he should have done. He has aided greatly by his administration this year to make the fair at Evansville a success.

We are going to have a great fair in Janesville later on. It will be a good thing for all citizens of the county to see both fairs—here and at Evansville. They are our own Rock county products. And when you have said that and take in also our neighbor counties in Southern Wisconsin, you have in the wordy perversion of the street, "said a mouthful."

The man who says this is a cold world has not been reading his thermometer lately.

What Is Going on in Brazil
 No one seems to be sure as to just what is taking place in Brazil. The censorship is of the most rigid kind. That there is a serious uprising with well-armed and well-officer troops, is certain. That in the state of Sao Paulo, which in American is St. Paul, there has been a bloody and partly successful revolution, is undoubted. We have most of the news through channels controlled by the government of Brazil and hence what is being accomplished by the rebels is carefully minimized.

The state of Sao Paulo is the richest in Brazil. It has ambitions to stand alone. It has resented the official cabal at Rio Janeiro and wants greater protection and government support for its coffee crop. Once Brazil tried an extensive valorization scheme for coffee much the same as the McNary-Haugen bill proposes for wheat and other farm products, only to place the nation on the verge of bankruptcy. With ambitions to be free and independent, Sao Paulo has revolted in an attempt to secede from the Brazilian republic. It has an army of fighting men and from the successes reported by the government, must be well-armed and equipped. (Also the people are much in support of the rebellion and that will give greater gravity to the attempt to divide the nation.)

However, we have a revolution so frequently somewhere in the Latin-American states, either among the former Spanish provinces or as now in the sole Portuguese language nation of the western continent, that it must be of a most serious nature before it begins to be real news. It may be several weeks before some one coming out of the war zone, will be able to tell exactly what is going on in the interior of Brazil.

What Is a Concealed Weapon?
 A case of considerable general interest has been decided by the supreme court of Missouri as to what constitutes pistol toting as defined by the law. Missouri has a concealed weapon statute about the same as in other states. But in order to evade it some of the state's best bandits have been carrying the revolver on the seat of the automobile so that on the technical question they could defend that the pistol was not concealed. But the court has knocked this subterfuge into a cocked hat and other states may profit by the court's decision which was to this effect:

Under the statute the concealment, although not actually upon the person, may be in such close proximity to the accused as to be within his easy reach and convenient control; and upon proof of this fact the offense is made out.

This decision was made on an appeal taken from the lower court's charge to the jury in a case where the accused man had carried a revolver on the seat of his car. The lower court had charged that:

The court instructs the jury that it is not necessary that the revolving pistol should be in defendant's pocket to constitute it a concealed weapon about his person. If you find and believe from the evidence . . . the revolving pistol was in the pocket of defendant's clothing and thereby concealed from view, or if you find and believe from the evidence that the pistol was not in pocket of defendant's clothing, but was in the seat of his wagon and concealed from view so that it could not be seen, then in either case such weapon was a concealed weapon about his person within the meaning of the law.

Those night noises are not from an open muffler but the staccato music of the growling gorn.

PITY FOR THE CRIMINAL

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Washington.—The tendency to regard criminals as irresponsible persons, more to be pitied than punished, grows with every discovery of science. Not so long ago, we were surprised to learn that individuals with abnormal glands are victims of irregularities in their ductless glands. Now we are told that crime is caused by a physical defect in the brain.

The man who puts arsenic in his wife's tea, or the woman who shoots a recalcitrant lover, can not be regarded as a normal individual. According to the new dictates of science, neither could help committing murder any more than he could help breaking out into a rash if he had chicken-pox.

Character, mood and conduct are largely determined by the performance of the endocrine glands, the gland advocates assert. The thyroid gland, especially, is held responsible for the sort of criminal instability which finds outlet in homicidal homicide. In other words, the shooting of sweeties, they say, can almost always be explained by a defective thyroid. The pituitary is another gland of the endocrine system which plays an important part in the conduct of homo sapiens. Let it get out of order, and a criminal impulse is apt to be the result.

Among the champions of the gland theory of crime is Dr. Charles B. Davenport, director of the eugenics record office, who declares that society should not hate or desire vengeance on a criminal, since he is so clearly the victim of his glands. He favors locking up the criminal out of the criminal instinct, but locking the man with the product of unfortunate chemical reactions not under his control.

On the other hand, the idea that emotional instability is almost always due to a defect in the lower brain has many learned exponents. It has been suggested by such widely separated authorities as Lombroso and William James, but it has remained for two well-known criminologists of Chicago to give it practical application. They are Harry Olson, chief justice of the municipal court of Chicago, and Dr. William H. Hekman, head of the psychology laboratory attached to the criminal division of the municipal court. Experiments covering a period of ten years and dealing with over 40,000 cases, have convinced these experts that the lower brain holds the key to antisocial behavior.

Their proposition is very simple. The human brain, they point out, is composed of two principal parts—upper and lower. The upper part is the seat of the intelligence; the lower part is the seat of the emotions and will. When the mechanism of a man's lower brain is imperfect he is unable to exercise normal control over his emotions, and his moral judgments are confused. Although his upper brain may be normal or greatly above the normal in intelligence, the defect in the actual grey matter of his lower brain, affecting his conscience, so that he has a faulty perception of right and wrong. Just as there are all degrees of intelligence, so there are all degrees of immorality.

Some authorities believe that one part of the brain is highly developed only at the expense of the other. Thus persons of exceptional intellect often display little or no moral sense, while persons of great moral virtue are frequently dull.

The Chicago experts have such firm belief in their theory that they are anxious to have certain "morality tests" introduced into the public schools. An expert examination of school children would show, they claim, who would become criminals and who would not. Furthermore, it would be possible to predict, they say, what particular line of crime the potential criminals were headed for—arson, swindling, burglary or murder.

While neither the gland theory nor the lower brain theory has as yet been applied in the schools, both are gaining headway in the criminal courts. Examination by doctors of medicine—especially doctors of mental therapy—are now almost as common as examinations by doctors of law. A recent murder case in Chicago, for instance, is said to be employing about five times as many doctors as lawyers.

With the growing acceptance of the physical basis of crime, it is becoming more difficult to secure a conviction of murder in the first degree. Always in criminal cases the law presumes that all persons are sane. Hence, when the criminal or his counsel admits the actual commission of the act but denies responsibility on the ground of insanity, the burden of the proof rests upon them. In a short time, however, it may be the other way about. One jurist predicts that the law will come to regard every criminal insane from lower brain or gland defects, and he will have the devil of a time proving his sanity and thus retaining his liberty on bail, as he does at present.

From time immemorial the most important question in criminal cases has been that of criminal intent. In other words, did the accused intend to commit the crime, or did he do it involuntarily? If, knowing right from wrong, he deliberately planned and executed the crime, then there is no doubt that he is guilty. But if his counsel can prove that he is mentally unable to form a criminal intent, because of incapacity to distinguish between right and wrong—he is not regarded as guilty under the law.

In attempting to prove the irresponsibility of individual criminals, some strange theories have sometimes been introduced by doctors employed by the defense. In one murder case, an anthropologist laid great stress upon the peculiar shortness of the head of the accused, which he set as proof of insanity. His testimony concerning head measurements and mental derangements seemed so absurd to the alienist employed by the district attorney that the next day he stopped at a famous hat shop and obtained a list of conformation tracings. When the anthropologist next came on the stand, the district attorney handed him the tracings, asking him to state whether or not they represented the heads of insane persons. The anthropologist was at once positive that they did.

The district attorney then announced that they were the head measurements of several of the city's most successful mob—"including those of his honor, the judge, who presides in this case."

That crime is the result of grave physical defects is not, as has been said, a new theory. Lombroso had much to say on the same general subject years ago. Through examination of thousands of criminals in the prisons of Italy and through numerous autopsies, he came to the conclusion that the criminal invariably possesses some physical abnormality. He not only stressed the importance of the shape of the head, but he also tabulated ear and leg measurements, peculiarities in the formation of the ears, and other features. Gradually, he evolved several criminal types which he claimed could be easily distinguished from the normal run of humanity.

Later, his views were challenged and discredited. Now, however, Lombroso's ideas are being revived as a result of new discoveries particularly with regard to the endocrine glands.

terson's paper, asks that the notification of Davis and Bryan be at Kansas City. It seems barely possible that the C-J fears a riot if it should be done in Davis' home in New York. However, if neutral ground is wanted we suggest Janesville where there is no political animosity.

After having conferred with George Brennan and Tom Taggart, Mr. Davis knows exactly what the people want.

The beauties of Riverside park are just beginning to dawn on the great public.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE FEMININE PASSION
 Janet has to be in style.
 Bless her heart! That's all there's to it!
 I'll keep working all the while
 'Add wear shabby clothes to do it.
 That's what that's truly human!
 Downtight feminine, my guess is;
 Well I know the ways of woman—
 She must have her pretty dresses.

Facts are what I bank upon,
 Circumstances alter cases,
 But they never change this one—
 Women live for silks and laces!
 Take 'em young and take 'em old,
 If they're of the female gender,
 Pretty, winsome, shy or bold,
 They must wear the latest splendor.

Ribbons pink and Ribbons blue
 Seem to be their ruling passion,
 Everything from hat to shoe
 Always has to be in fashion;
 That's the very nature of 'em.
 So their mothers were before 'em,
 Kept the men who vowed to love 'em
 Busy buying dresses for 'em.

Now, there's Janet! Bless her heart!
 She's a real girl, not a show girl,
 When it comes to raiment, yet
 She wants everything that's going.
 Born a girl! That's all there's to it,
 And her doting dad confesses,
 Just as long as he can do it,
 Gladly will he buy her dresses.

HOROSCOPE

FRIDAY, JULY 18, 1924.

This is rather an unfavorable day for most human activities according to astrology. Mars and Neptune are in malefic aspect, but Saturn is friendly.

Farmers may take heart, since the stars seem to indicate that crops in many parts of the country will be unusually good. Drought is predicted next month in a number of states and the west will be much affected. It is forecast.

Again home-owning will be popular and real estate should be more active than it has been. Thrift is enjoined by the stars who vainly warn the people to safeguard property and provide for years that may be lean.

Astrologers repeatedly declare that European conditions must affect this country seriously, even though there is much apparent prosperity.

Mars and Neptune are in aspects denoting continued agitation regarding the army and navy of the United States.

Some cause, failed or otherwise, for pronounced warlike action, or organizations to an unprecedented peace campaign, it is foretold. Accidents on war ships belonging to Uncle Sam are prognosticated and there may be serious loss of life.

Violent storms in the eastern part of the Atlantic coast are foretold by astrologers. Earthquake shocks are threatened in the 22nd degree of East Longitude.

Tourists abroad are to learn much that will affect their attitude on international relations, the stars declare.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of much travel within the year and certain journeys may be due to some sort of anxiety. Speculation or money-lending should be avoided.

Children born on this day probably will enjoy lives in which there is much variety. These subjects of Cancer usually are great travelers.

Personal Health Service

SURVIVAL OF THE WEAK
 A correspondent asks: "Do you think it possible for people with impaired health to attain longevity?"
 The answer to that is the answer to another question—Is life worth living? Some one back in the good old almanac days said it depends on the liver.

Remember the case of our old friend George. George was practically a giant at 30, weighing more than 22 stone (stones averaging 14 pounds). Hearty, happy, short of breath—but with an appetite which, according to the modern Yankee notion would make him a healthy man. George reformed about that time, began to practice temperance in eating and drinking in general. He reduced to 150 pounds, regained his strength and lived to the age of 72 years, which was a remarkable old age in George's time, 1871-1872. Then still further back Lulu Cornaro was a broken man at 49, from long living, and he, too, asked himself whether it paid to live one's life. But he changed his habits and lived to be a centenarian.

Old, which was a wonderful accomplishment 400 years ago. Cornaro's essay on "The Art of Living Long" is one of the valuable books in the library. George Cheyne's essay on long life, being more recent, is rarely to be found in libraries, but it is a mine of encouragement and optimism and good sense for everybody concerned about the relation of girly rate to longevity.

Our own great American, Theodore Roosevelt, was full in his early youth and had risked his life in the service of the benevolent Chauncey Dewey but for an accident of infection.

Horace Fletcher at 40 was rejected and had risked his life in the service of the benevolent Chauncey Dewey but for an accident of infection. He took thought, mended his ways of living, and at 60 without training demonstrated at Yale that he had greater physical endurance than the best athletes. Fletcher's "A-Z of Our Own Nutrition" contains much sound hygiene along with a dash of nonsense when he carries his theory to the extreme of absurdity, advising that all undigested food be ejected from the mouth.

There are a few conspicuous examples. Nowadays it almost seems that impaired health in early life is due to too much eating, for when health is too good in early life we are apt to ignore or scold the teachings of hygiene and consequently fall into many errors of living which bring up the inevitable "break-down." The most eager and tractable student of hygiene is the valiant man. He is open to suggestion. The trouble is that in the past, the suggestion has been to eat and eat. Nothing can be more harmful than the nefarious business of equipping the layman with the symptoms or makings of real or imaginary illness.

CHAPTER XV
Lyme of the King

On the next day, which was Friday, the country-folk continued to come in, and by evening Monmouth's forces amounted to a thousand and a half, and a hundred and fifty horses. The men were armed and equipped as they were, and a score of a field or quiet avenue in the district but resounded to the tramp of feet, the rattle of weapons, and the sharp orders of the officers who, by drilling, were excavating this raw material into soldiers. On the Saturday the rally of the Duke's standard was such that Monmouth's army had increased to a thousand and a half, and the Duke's army, which had been reduced to a few hundred men, was now a thousand and a half. The Duke's army, which had been reduced to a few hundred men, was now a thousand and a half. The Duke's army, which had been reduced to a few hundred men, was now a thousand and a half.

Long before evening willing fellows were being turned away in hundreds for lack of weapons. In spite of Monmouth's big talk on landing, and of the rumour that had gone out, that he had a score of thousands of men, his stock of arms was exhausted by a mere fifteen hundred. Trenchard, held Major's rank in the Duke's army, was the only one of his own regiment who had any arms, and this state of things, Mr. Willing was sad, and his depression again spread to the Duke after a few words had passed between them. The Duke, who was a good soldier, but who was not a good leader, was sad, and his depression again spread to the Duke after a few words had passed between them. The Duke, who was a good soldier, but who was not a good leader, was sad, and his depression again spread to the Duke after a few words had passed between them.

The suggestion was one that instantly received Mr. Willing's heartiest approval. It seemed to him suddenly with a hope that spoke of it, indeed, as an inspiration which, if acted upon, might yet save the situation. The Duke was undecided as ever; he was too much troubled weighing the odds, and he was too much troubled weighing the odds, and he was too much troubled weighing the odds.

But that council was never to be called. For Andrew Fletcher's association with the rebellion was drawing rapidly to its close, and there was that to happen in the next few hours which should counteract all the encouragement with which the Duke had been fortified that day.

Towards evening, Mr. Willing, who had landed at Seaton and gone out with the news of the Duke's arrival, rode into Lyme with forty horse-mounted men, and a heavy armed charger which was destined to be the undoing of him.

News came, too, that the Dorset militia were at Bridport, eight miles away, and that they were on their way to Lyme.

Mr. Willing, who was a good soldier, but who was not a good leader, was sad, and his depression again spread to the Duke after a few words had passed between them. YOUR BABY and MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred is happy to advise all mothers about the care of their children for any age, or on any subject which does not belong in the field of the doctor.

I am sure if this is your first baby that you will be able to work for two months longer without embarrassment.

Mrs. G. B. H. writes: "I want to ask you what I can do for my baby? He is one year old and hasn't a tooth yet, though they can be seen plainly. My baby weighs about 22 pounds. Is that about right?"

"Should a baby be weaned as soon as the mother becomes pregnant again?"

"Can you tell me what makes the baby's bowels so bound up. One day they will be loose and the next day tight. Give him cow's milk with some water and sugar, and bread and butter also."

The leaflet on feeding would set you right as to the diet for this period, so advice about it is seldom printed here. It can be had for a self-addressed and stamped envelope. I imagine you have been nursing the baby and you are pregnant again that the baby has not been as well nourished as he should be, and this is the cause of the late teething. He is a good weight, but needs vegetables in his diet as well as cereals and fruits.

If I knew more details about his feeding than you write, could give you a better idea of why his bowels are in such a condition. Will be glad to send you a leaflet on constipation.

By all means wean the baby when you become pregnant. You cannot do justice to the present child, yourself, or the coming one.

Mrs. A. N. N. writes: "I am sure you are right. I am sure you would have known if you had given it a second thought. I shall be glad to answer it personally if you send a self-addressed and stamped envelope and repeat the questions."

TODAY'S RECIPES

Potato Salad. Boil six or eight medium sized potatoes, peel them while hot and have ready the following oil dressing: One egg yolk beaten slightly, then add salad oil, few drops at a time until mixture starts to get thick. Continue beating and add a little faster. One egg yolk will take up about one-quarter pint of oil. Now put the oil mixture over hot sliced potatoes, adding lights then salt and pepper to taste. Put about three tablespoons vinegar over salad. Mix good-size onion and put in. Serve on lettuce leaves (when salad has been chilled) garnish with hard-boiled eggs. This deviates from the beaten path, by not using lemon juice or vinegar in oil dressing. Vary by using other kind of plate with sliced tomatoes.

Cheese Surprise—Break one-quarter pound cream cheese into bits and mix with 1/2 to a smooth paste, two eggs, one-half cup sugar, one-half cup flour, one-half teaspoon of salt, Cayenne pepper. Toast six slices of bread, and after spreading them with cheese mixture lay in flat pan and put in hot oven for five minutes. Serve at once.

SUGGESTIONS

When using molasses that is not dark as desired for gingerbread, chocolate, etc., add a little chocolate or cocoa. This not only gives the desired color, but flavors as well.

When your curtains have faded, rub them with a mixture of white vinegar and water. This will restore their color and make them look like new.

What a fine idea! Skirts should be washed in lukewarm water and white soap shaved fine. Do not rub. Rinse well but do not wring them, and hang in the shade. Iron on the wrong side of the skirt.

A box that has been better days in the house but had not entirely outlived its usefulness was utilized by one enterprising woman to hold all sorts of odd-sized ends on the porch and also to be used as an extra porch seat. It was given several coats of green enamel topped with a mottled purple shellac. On the sides were colored paper in green, blue and yellow, these also being shellacked. A padded cover of black oilcloth stuffed with cotton wool and ornamented with the corners with tape made of bright red feather cut in narrow strips was made and fastened on the cover. It made a pretty and useful piece of furniture. Cushions, gray and blue, and books, rubbers, etc., all went into it when not in use and were kept safe and dry.

UP-TO-DATE FURNISHING HINTS

The busy housewife will rejoice in this news that three-piece crocheted window curtains can be hemmed ready to hang. There is a pointed over-value for the top of the window, and a pointed over-value for the bottom.

The bow foot bed is popular even in painted sets and the crinkle cloth bed spreads are most practical for summer. They come in pretty colors and are light and airy. Many have threads of artificial silk which give them a silky luster.

Also there were patriots present from many of the towns and villages in the well lighted and well equipped hall. The service was conducted by the pastor, the Rev. J. L. Peterson. The text of the sermon was I Peter 3:12. But sanctify in your hearts the Lord's calling, ready always to give answer to every man that asketh you a reason concerning the hope that is in you, yet with meekness and lowliness of mind, fearing the Lord. The service was well attended and the choir, chorale sung by an audience that packed the church to the doors, a generous offering was collected.
